OUR MISSION

J3 Foundation is a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization that provides after-school reading programs in partnership with high need schools that serve students of color.

Our mission is to equip 4th grade scholars with the reading skills, habits, confidence, and books they need for a lifetime of reading success.

"Today a reader, tomorrow a leader"

- Margaret Fuller

Why do we focus on literacy? Studies show that in Los Angeles, two-thirds of students not reading proficiently by the end of fourth grade will at some point be incarcerated or on welfare. More than 50% of students in LA are not meeting reading standards and the number is even more alarming for students of color. In order to interrupt the school to prison pipeline, J3 Foundation directs its resources to build communities of scholars who are passionate about books and confident in their abilities.
Dear Friends,

At J3 Foundation we are working each and every day to make a difference in the reading lives of young people.

The many dreams and aspirations of students will emerge in the early years with proficient reading and a love of reading. J3 Foundation is working to support growth in the reading skills, habits, confidence, and book access for the most vulnerable 4th grade students across Los Angeles.

When we started the 2019-2020 school year, we could never have imagined what would be in store for us. J3 had just completed its Winter quarter session when news that the Coronavirus pandemic had reached the United States was starting to sink in. At a time when we were all facing enormous uncertainty, I am proud to say that J3 Foundation was able to adapt our program to fit the virtual classroom model so that we could continue to support student literacy. During this critical time for students and teachers alike, our team found new ways of teaching and fostering communities of readers within each Cozy Reading Club.

J3 Foundation is extremely appreciative and proud of its network of students, educators, employees, volunteers, and community supporters and sponsors.

We encourage each and every follower of J3 Foundation to get involved in any way possible to expand opportunities for children across Southern California.

For the 2019-2020 school year, the J3 Foundation held data sharing agreements with three schools across three districts - Aveson School of Leaders (PUSD), Thomas Edison Elementary (GUSD), and Watts Learning Center (LAUSD). Data collected from the standardized assessments each school administers (i.e. DIBELS, iReady, Achieve3000) are used, first, to populate J3’s program with students meeting our criteria for reading intervention (one grade level behind), and ultimately to track student growth over the course of the year of participation in J3.

Across all three schools, 50% of students have shown measurable growth in reading assessments after one session (between 6-10 weeks, depending on the school). More specifically, students increased in their reading rate (more words per minute), accuracy (fewer errors), and reading comprehension. We have also found a positive relationship between attendance over the course of a session and growth in reading skills.

At Thomas Edison Elementary School (GUSD) in particular, we were able to put a program into effect that is most closely representative of the model we hope to replicate as we scale - in terms of recruiting students at our target reading level, meeting our student-teacher ratio, and length of the program. At Thomas Edison Elementary, 86% of students in fall session saw an increase in their standardized reading scores and 50% of students exceeded annual typical growth.

Surveys conducted anonymously have shown that across all schools and districts:

- 100% of parents felt that J3 positively impacted their student’s reading skills, habits, and confidence.
- 92% of parents felt that J3 created a sense of excitement and community around reading.
- 91% of students said that J3 made them feel more confident in themselves and their reading abilities.
- 100% of students said that J3’s library featured books that they were excited to read.
SUCCESS STORIES

Notes from Parents:

“Thank you for all your help, support, and encouragement you gave [my student]. J3 renewed her confidence and it is showing!!”

“Cozy Reading Club could not have come at a better time. The kids were able to learn social skills with familiar and unfamiliar faces during such a rough patch in their school year. The teachers were so active and helpful. My kid loves being a part of after school programs, hopefully this continues when school fully opens.”

“Keep up the great work. [My student] enjoys the reading club very much. She loves the teachers also. She feels welcomed. I think it is a great safe place for my child to read and expand her critical thinking skills. You are all amazing!”

Notes from J3 Teachers:

“J3 has built confidence in many students, which has improved the school environment as a whole.”

“J3 definitely helped our 4th graders feel confident in reading and collaborating with peers. This will help their confidence in sharing and working with each other as they move onto 5th.”

Notes from Students:

“I used to read super bad before but now I've been practicing and I'm really confident now.”

“I like reading now. I used to not like it a lot. But because of this program I love reading now. It’s fun for me.”
OUR APPROACH

Our J3 approach is grounded in rigorous, evidence-based research and informed by a cycle of continuous evaluation. Our development team includes nationally recognized experts who are educational practitioners, nationally recognized researchers, and experts in the fields of psychology and social work. Our advisory board includes educational practitioners and researchers, parents, authors, entrepreneurs, and professionals in several fields.

J3 is on a mission to create lifelong readers, and that starts with access to irresistible books from our culturally relevant collections. Our J3 classroom libraries and home collections have been carefully chosen and include high-interest, culturally relevant, fiction and non-fiction titles to encourage wide reading. In close partnership with local donors, we provide free and low-cost books so young scholars can choose books to grow their own collections.

Our J3 after-school reading program for students in grade 4 provides the skills, habits, confidence, and books kids need to succeed. Our evidence-based curriculum and highly-qualified teachers provide young scholars with the opportunity to practice word-attack skills, increase their vocabulary, and build their reading fluency. At J3, we teach young scholars how to use their voices, to speak up, to read out loud and to be public scholars in community spaces.

J3 partners with schools and their teachers who play an active role in giving our young scholars new reasons and opportunities for reading all day long. Our school partners help young scholars apply their growing skills and newfound confidence with multiple opportunities for co-reading and partner reading with classmates, home reading activities, and community reading events. These essential partnerships help J3 scholars learn how to share their confidence and new habits with siblings, parents, and friends in the community.

Our Goals: 2018-2022

1. With a goal of students reaching grade level proficiency, promote measurable increases in reading ability in four ways:
   • skills (fluency, vocabulary, and reading comprehension);
   • books (book access, number of books in home);
   • confidence (reading attitudes); and
   • habits (sustained reading growth and attitudes over time).

2. Create after-school partnerships with schools and communities that can be sustained, replicated, and scaled up over time.

3. Curate culturally relevant, high-interest J3 book collections to increase reading access to benefit students, families, schools and communities.

4. Create mutually beneficial partnerships with schools, families and communities to promote sustained reading achievement.

5. Develop sustainable funding and strategic partnerships through innovative events and other sources to enable growth in the number of kids and families reaching success in J3 programs.

In order to support this year’s expansion of our program we launched two virtual fundraising campaigns.

May 5, 2020

#GivingTuesdayNow was a day of global action for giving and unity in response to the COVID-19 pandemic.

This one-time fundraising event raised nearly $7,000 for J3

December 2020

During the month of December, we raised roughly $164,500 through the launch of our Giving Tuesday and end-of-year giving
